CESSATION

Apart from the actual building as a structure, should cessation of the Acetylene Plant be so decided, all related equipment would be dismantled and most probably would be sold as second hand equipment. Since, for the foreseeable future, this is not envisaged, no concrete plans of how to dispose of the plant equipment are in hand. In contrast, the actual building would be utilized as storage space for the various manufacturing activities of the group of companies. An estimated € 5000 would be required to dismantle the plant.
