

Marine Environmental Monitoring

Brief description of services

Our marine team is well-versed in local biodiversity and has carried out a large number of marine monitoring surveys across the Maltese Islands. Our services include habitat mapping, identifying protected species and biological analyses such as Posidonia oceanica. Our services are performed with SCUBA and/or ROV surveys as necessary. We also collect samples of water, sediment and fish and carry out chemical analyses on these samples